Graduate Instructional Designer Project Lead

The Company

Saffron Interactive is an industry leading software design house developing award winning e-learning and business communications solutions. We provide solutions to national and international blue chip companies including O2, Channel 4, Hilton, T-Mobile, Siemens, BT and Microsoft. Saffron's solutions and people are widely recognised as the best in their field. We are currently looking for talented individuals to join our expanding Central London team.

The Role

You will lead the development and delivery of training courses and business communications. You will act as content consultant for clients by analysing their requirements and authoring the solutions. You will also manage the transformation of your solution from the design stage to the finished product and ensure its quality.

We can only deliver the solutions we do, because of our people – so the right attitude is as important as the right skills. You will be focussed, driven and have a fundamental belief in quality. In return, you will be an integral part the team, working in an exciting and dynamic environment. You will receive a competitive salary, formal and informal training and be eligible for the company bonus scheme.

Responsibilities

- Development of content for bespoke training solutions and business communications
- Product analysis, development and quality assurance
- Project and client management
- You will be expected to work:
- In a variety of subjects and sectors
- Within aggressive timelines
- On multiple projects
- In a team environment
- In response to regular constructive feedback

The Skills

Essential

- Minimum of a 2:1 degree
- Highly literate with some demonstrable writing ability
- Very good eye for detail
- Confident and dynamic, an exceptional verbal communicator, able to liaise with senior client contacts
- Smart and presentable
- Organised self-starter with an enthusiastic "can-do" approach

Desirable

- Business experience in a commercial environment
- Knowledge of learning interventions with a commitment to training

Location: Central London Salary: Dependent on experience

© Saffron Interactive 2013