

Think social learning

Social Learning is set to revolutionise the way that organisations learn and the way people develop. Social Learning platforms can deliver both more efficient and more effective learning with improved impacts on the business.

Our social learning platform uses open source technology to provide Facebook, twitter, blog and wiki functionality inside a client's firewall. We support clients from the needs analysis phase through to implementation and tailor our platforms to meet your needs.

Consider the cost and time involved to find and bring together the right subject matter experts to create a traditional learning course. Today, those experts can be right there online, participating in a vibrant community of knowledge sharing.

For more information, contact joanna@saffroninteractive.com